fallen the big vessel was received by wireless here at 9 o'clock last night. Within half an hour, however, all communication with the vessel, ceased and gravest fears are entertained for its safety and that of the 196 souls the boat carried. The shores of Seal Island are

The Olympia sailed from Seattle December 6, with about 60 passengers and several hundred tons or freight. The passengers, who went north on the vessel, first sailed on the steamer Northwestern, which grounded in False Bay early on the morning of December 2, a few hours after sailing from Seattle for the north. The Northwestern passengers were brought back to Seattle and resumed their journey on the Olympia, which was burriedly put into commission. The Olympia had already called at Cordova. Among these who sailed for Valdez and Seward are United States District Judge E. E. Cushman and wife and members of the Third district court, on their way to Valdez, where court convenes today. The Olympia's erew consists of 56 officers and men. Captain J. Daniels in command. New England's Surrender

New England, a compact empire in itself, immensely rich, composite of the original spirited stock which placed this new nation in existence, a vast hive of factories which depend: for their very vitality upon a hauling of raw material into this section and a hauling out again of the finished product, a community which in embryo reproduces faithfully the entire railroad situation in the United States-proud, autocratic, hitherto independent old New England . has abjectly and deliberately surrendered its whole transportation to a viceroy of J. Pierpont Morgan. This act has been done finally by the very representatives of the people themselves.

This story in the December "HAMP-TON'S" reveals the exact status of the railroad business as conducted in America by high financiers. Read it and learn who are the real rulers of America.

The Title "Esquire." The title "esquire" is derived from the French word ecurer (a shield bearet) and originated in the old days of chivalry, when, as is well known. each knight appointed one or more persons of gentle birth to carry his shield and perform other honorable services. These persons were known as uquires, or, more accurately, esquires and were of such birth as would permit of their being in their turn crethed knights when they should have at the distinction by deeds of or otherwise. In the reign of Ri hard II. the status of an esquire was granted for the first time by letters patent as a title of honor merely. no duties being attached. This meth od of creation is now obsolete, but it marks an advanced stage in the decay of chivalry, which decay resulted in the titles "knight" and "esquire" becoming wholly honorary.-Pall Mail Gazette.

Daddy's Bedtime

the Milkmaid's Dream

CE upon a time," said daddy one evening, "there was a nethmaid who was very proud and who also had the hapit of talking to terself. She was a poor girl who wanted very much to be rich-like most of the rest of the world, I am afraid. "One day as this millimaid was coming home from milking the cow-she was carrying her pail full of milk on her head-she thought:

"Won't it be nice, when I have sold this pail of milk, to buy some eggs for the money I shall get! I think I ought to get at least a dozen eggs for this pail of nice, new, fresh milk, or maybe I had better take only three eags and one hen, so that the hen may sit on the eggs and natch then, into

"Then I shall have three chickens besides the hen. Of course when these clickens grow up they will lay more eggs, and by and by I shall have a great number of eggs from which to listely chickens.

When I have enough chickens I shall take them to mail of and exchange them for a fine, fat little pig. Oh, how carefully I shall watch my little pig. and feed him well until he becomes a great it's porker! How proud I shall be of him! And then I shall sell him, and perhaps some of my chickens as well, so that I ♦ th get enough money to buy a small cow?

"The milkingid was be onling greatly interested now in her own plans and walked along with her head high in the air, being careful, however, not to spill the pail of milk which was to be the start of all her good fortune. She continued saying to herself out loud: After awhile when my cow becomes blager it will give me much milk.

Then I shall be rich indeed, and I shall take the milk to market each day and sell it and save the money until I shall have enough money to buy a nice farm "Then all the farmers in this part of the country will want to marry me, for I shall be the richest girl around here. Now they will not look at me because I am only a poor girl, but I shall show them!

When they come around asking me to marry them I shall look at them, oo, and I shall smile, and I shall toss my head, so -

"And with that the poor silly milkmaid, forgetting that she had the pail of milk on her head, gave it a fine toss. The pair of table fell to the ground, and the milk was spilled and lost. And that was the end of the milk maid's dream of riches, all because she did not think thee without the pail of milk she had nothing."

A few weeks add a call for magazines and reading teatter for Sanducks Home met response of the comes in a box valued at $10,00. Literactic is very acceptable to the veterans.

At the Xenia Home there are about eight hundred orphans. Each child will receive a bool and choice of one present. Early Christmas morning children sing the sacred Christmes carols. To this home $5,00 was sent from Lemert cores to help gladden the hearts of the orphans.

The members of Lement corps are requested to bring articles for boxes to regular meeting on Wednesday, December 14, in order that articles may reach their destination on time.

The annual election of officers will occur at the next meeting and general orders from the Department Presiden: will be read for the work of patriot-

Now for the first time you get a complete set of all Mark Twain's writings at just exactly one-half the price they have ever been sold before. This is a new edition, just as complete as the old one, which still sells, by the way, at $50.00. This new edition is only $25.00—for the 25 volumes.

It had been Mark Twain's ambition to have his beeks in every American home, and he made a great personal sacrifice to bring about this remarkable epportunity—for the first time in the history of publishing, copyrighted books are old at the price of non-copyrighted books the chance will not come again.

But for Mark Twiin's action this would have been impossible. Never before has a capyrighted library set of a standard author's works been issued at such a low figure.

dress from these words of Scripture: "And Issue brought Rebecca into his rother Sarah's tent, and she became his alfe and he loted her. '—Genesis xxiv. . When we sometimes speak of Abraham, Isaac and others as types we should not be understood to mean that they were merely types-that the Br ble stories respecting them are fictions. A person or thing is a type when, in addition to the actual experiences, the Scriptures indicate that it prefigures and illustrates on a small scale some person or things yet future. As, for instance, Adam in certain respects, as the head of the race. was a type of Messiab, the Second Adam:

race, but failed to give the eternal life desired. In God's providence Messiah is to be the Second Adam, in the sense that he will regenerate, as his children, all the posterity of the First Adam. Messiah is thus declared in prophecy to be the Everlasting Father of mankind-the Father or Lifegiver, better than Adam, and who will give to our race everlasting life, instead of a heritage of weakness, imperfection and death.

Similarly, Moses not only was a real character, the leader of the nation of Israel, but, additionally, he was a type of a greater Mediator-Messiah. As Moses mediated the Law Covenant for Israel, so Messiah, the Prophet like unto Moses, or antitypical of him (Acts lii. 23), is to be the Mediator of largel's New Covenant, under which the Abrahamic blessings will reach them and through them reach all the families of the earth (Jer. xxxi. 31). Similarly, Aaron was a type of the higher priesthood and its better sacrifices consisted with the New Corenant. So, also, the under-priests and the Levites, additional to their own experiences, served, in God's providence, as types of the higher institutions by which the New Covenant will be inaugurated shortly.

On this occasion we ask your after tion to Abraham, known in the Scriptures as the friend of God, as the father of the faithful, and to his son Isaac, the Son of Promise, born out of the natural order, miraculously, when his mother was old: also to Isaac's wife. Rebecca, selected by Abraham to be the companion and joint-heir with his son Isaac in his inheritance These personages lived their lives wholly unconscious of the fact that God, was using them and over-ruling their affairs so as to make of them prophetic pictures of his own great Plan of the Ages. These type-pictures are always to be read in full harmony with the inspired writings of the Bible and never to be understood in contra-

Abraham a Type of God. Not everything that Abraham did. however, is to be esteemed typical. In monument of faith and integrity and through him to his Seed, which would constitute him the father of many nations, made of him, as St. Paul points out, a type of the Almighty, from whom flows every good and every perfect gift-from whom proceeds the blessing which ultimately is to flow Israel, his people, unto all the families of the earth.

All Christians, presumably, are aware of St. Paul's interpretation of Abraham and his family as types. As Abraham typiffed God, so his wife typified the Covenant through which the vitality of the promise ultimately develops the Seed of Promise-Isaac in a type, and Messiah in the antitype, St. Paul also explains that Sarah's serv ant, Hagar, at Sarah's wish, became for a time her representative with Abraham and brought forth Ishmael Hagar, St. Paul explains, typified the Law Covenant, vitalized by the gracious arrangements of the same God and Father And Hagar's son, literally Abraham's first-born, typified the Jewish nation, the first development under the Covenant. As Abraham loved Isaac and desired a blessing upon him, so God loved Israel and desired a blessing upon Israel, the offspring of the Law Covenant Nevertheless, as Ishmeel, the offspring of the bond-woman, was declared not to be the primary heir of the Abrahamic promise, but a secondary one. to the children of Israel, the offspring of the Law Covenant, were not intended to be the Spiritual Messiah through

The antitype of this is that from the time that God began the development of the Spiritual Israel and set forth the "Covenant by sacrithrough which this Spiritual Isand nould be developed—from that time it began to be clearly manifest Kingdom which has been promised that the chief portion of the promise of God to bless the world was not to be fulfilled through the Ishmael Seed. natural israel, but through the Lunac Seed. Spiritual Israel.

The Well-Spring of Hope For the Jews. From the first there was manifested a competition for the Abrahamic blessing. And as Ishmael mocked at the lofant Isane, so the Jew, in his consider able development and strength, mocked at the Antitypical leanc-Jesus and his comparatively ignorant and unlearned followers -- and persecuted them. In order to continue the type, that Abraham might typify God, he was commanded to send forth Hagar and her son into the wilderness. That sending forth typified the Divine disfavor which came upon the Jews eighteen centuries ago and which has made them outcasts from God's favor, as Hagar and Ishmael were cut off from Abraham's presence and family and care. The bread and water which Hagar took with her by which she and isumael were nourished in the wilderness for a time, pictures and types the promises of God through the Law and the prophets which still belong to the Jew and upon which, for eighteen centuries, he has been nourished, and without which the hope of the nation, would have perishéd.

At the opportune noment the angel of the Lord appeared to ber and pointed her to a spring of water, where she refreshed herself and Ishmael with new life.

The antitype of this is now to be seen before us. The Jewish people, separated more and more from the Law and the Prophets, are becoming are about to die!
